

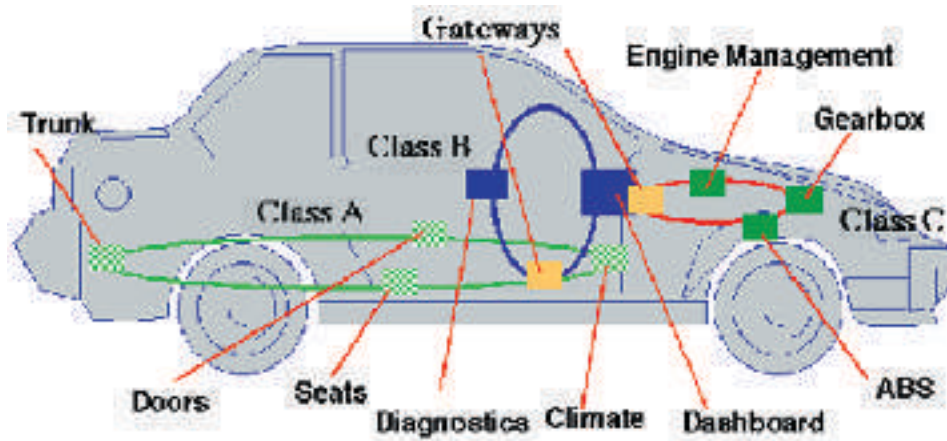

Figure 1

You can network various classes of bus networks in a car. Class A covers comfort and convenience systems. Class B addresses body-electronics and diagnostics systems. Class C applies to high-speed power-train, antilock-braking, and vehicle-dynamics systems.