

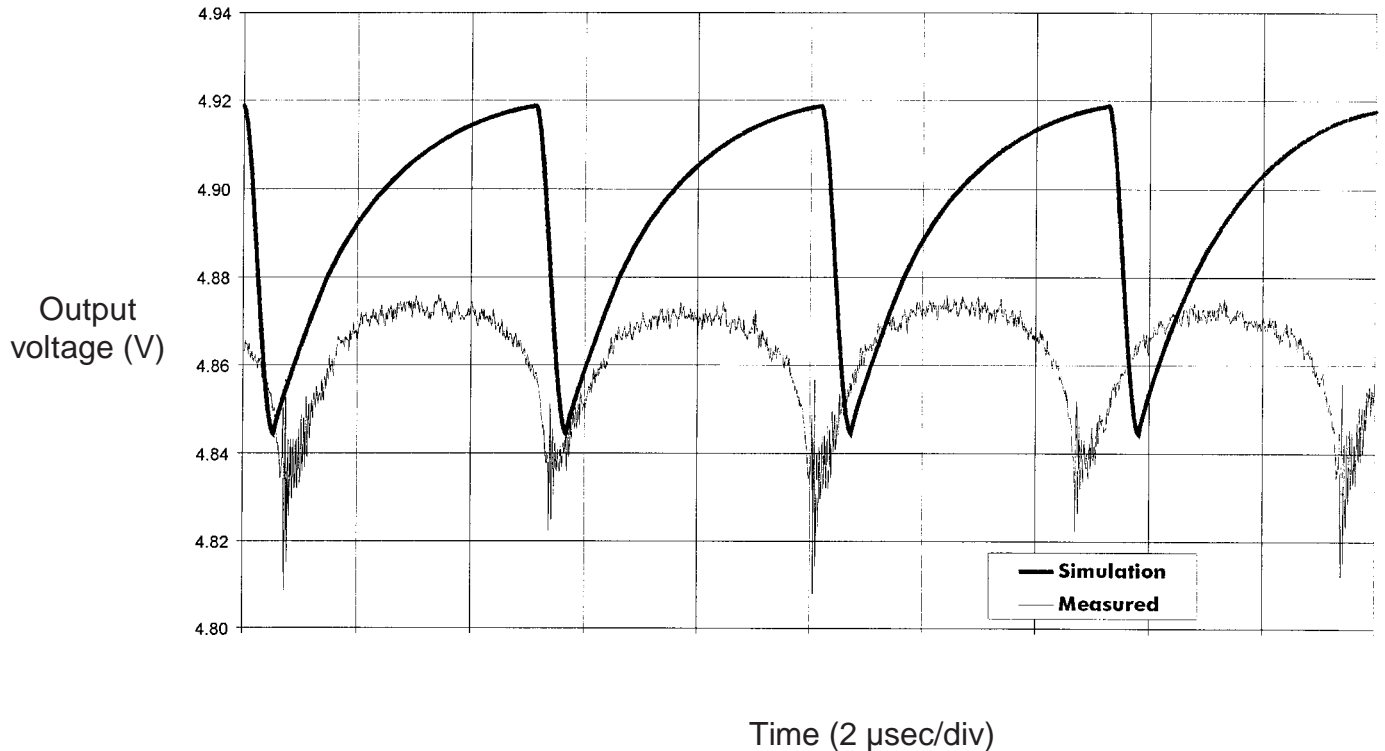

Figure 4

Output-ripple curves reveal some differences between the simulation and actual measurements, but the ac simulation is still a reasonably close representation of the measured result.