

The DSP-software-development and -testing process comprises many steps, starting with the development and simulation of core algorithms.