

To keep manufacturing costs low, Songbird engineers constructed a hearing aid from subassemblies that lend themselves to automated manufacturing.