

Waveforms of typical circuit operation show the improvement over full-wave average and peak-detecting circuits with similar time constants.