

In addition to presenting the appropriate detection signature to the line, the PD controller is also responsible for presenting appropriate V-I characteristics to identify the PD's load classification.