

Figure 2

This case study used a first-fit memory allocator in an embedded project. The system ran continuously in field tests for about two weeks before fragmentation reached 99%.