

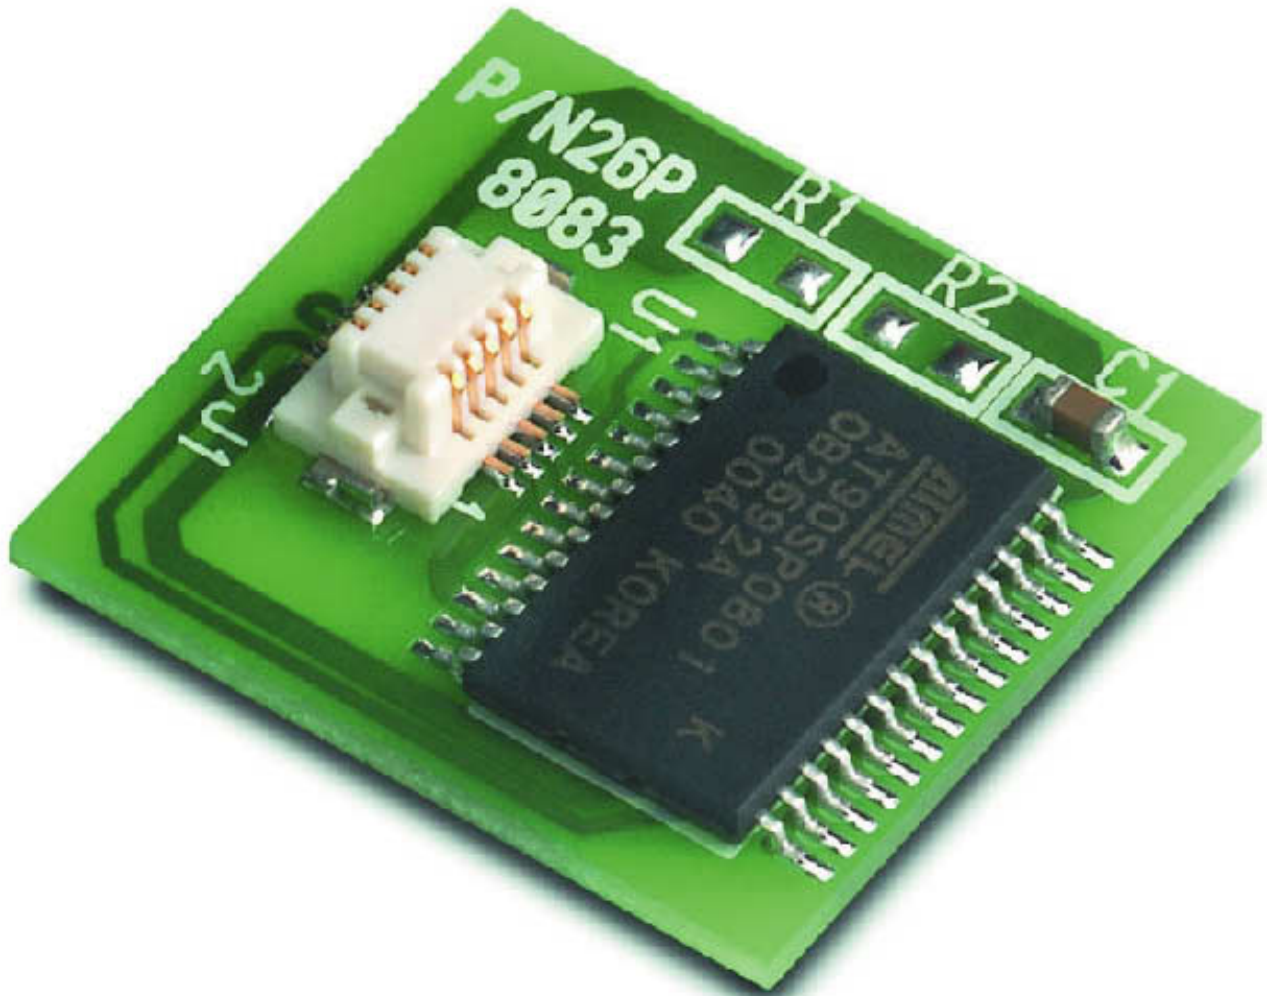

Figure 3

The IBM embedded security subsystem stores encryption keys for secure data and digital signatures for authentication and user identification.