

Figure 2

A SQUID (superconducting quantum interference device) pickup and the quantum-physics London effect sense the angular shift in the rotor spin axis, without physical contact or interference.