

Figure 2

A lighting-control module's CPU can monitor the combined current through several bright-LED drivers with one ADC input channel by measuring the sum of their ground currents (courtesy Melexis).