

Figure 3 The solar cell that powers EnOcean's STM100 network-transmitter node has two sections: The square area on the left charges a conventional capacitor, and the larger area on the right charges an ultracapacitor.
