

Figure 1 Traditional fixed partitioning yields design teams that usually divide into system- and processor-level development groups.

---