

Figure 4 Discrete time sampling produces a lowpass signal-transfer function in a discrete time delta-sigma ADC (a). The graph in (a) appears to show alias protection; however, the transfer function of (a) is wrapped around integer multiples of the sampling frequency, as the expanded plot (b) shows. Aliasing gaps appear centered on 60, 120, and 180 MHz in this case.