

The force generated by a person pushing a switch creates the linear motion necessary for a coil and a magnet to generate a power pulse. This pulse can briefly power a processor and radio in EnOcean's wall switch.

---