

Figure 1 Although the Energy Star label on major appliances has a flashy Energy Star-compliance logo, the label on external power supplies is much smaller. Space constraints generally limit the designation to either III or IV, with III being the current spec, and IV indicating the tighter Version 2.0 proposed for 2008.

---