

Figure 11 Adaptive 3-D combing relies on the ability of the decoder to correctly detect motion. This sequence is the normal order of events as a bird flaps its wings—in the down position (a), the up position (b), and returned to the down position (c).
