

Figure 8 Because every cell connects in series, current is a single-point measurement in a battery pack. The measurement should be bidirectional with a wide dynamic range. In this typical approach, the LEM DHAB14s84 contains two Hall-effect sensors and an ASIC to linearize the outputs, which are proportional to the 5V supply.