

Figure 2 Development boards, like this one from Lattice Semiconductor, often provide low-impedance access points for monitoring current on the FPGA's supply rails.

---